

Earl's Diary - Thursday - July 17, 2014

Hello to all my Loyal Readers, those I know, and those whom I don't know:

A big welcome to the gathering all my Loyal Readers! This picture - just to show I was really there!

This morning the sun actually came out and very few clouds in the sky! What a way to open the 12th annual Oregon Gathering! Registrations started coming in (Or was it that visiting had already started?)

The first event of the Gathering was the Golf Ball Horseshoe Tournament. As you can see from the accompanying photos it provided lots of fun, and a few laughs!

The ladies show how to do it

Now this is REAL form!

The cheering section

Score keeper hard at work

The object of the game is to score points by hitting the ladder - 3 points for top rung, 2 points for middle rung, and 1 point for the bottom rung.

Show us again
how you do it?

This is another way to do it

First place winners
Bret and Ellen

The "Authority" thinks he knows what he is doing. Never fear, there will always be someone to help straighten him out!

Second Place:
Alan and Jeannie

Campers not playing were busy greeting
and meeting new and old friends.

A look of frustration?

Third Place:
Tom and

Taking a "breather"

Award trophies will be presented at the Saturday night potluck.

That was a busy day - especially for the "authority". You will notice several photos with me in them. That's what happens when you hand the camera to someone else!

That was my busy day activity. Thanks for coming along with me today. - - Earl