

Earl's Diary - Friday - September 20, 2013

Dear Loyal Readers,

Almost everyone is here today. The Hat Creek Hereford Ranch Roundup is quickly getting up to speed with activity galore!

This ambitious group came to play games? It appears there were only three takers!

This Fiber Stream trailer looks like a giant toaster!

This evening we had a potluck dessert event. Here we are sitting again!

We had all manner of desserts. I'm sure most of them were the low calorie/sugar free variety! Michele, our hostess for the evening claims she got confused. The invitation said to come dressed as cowgirls, NOT girl cows!

We had nice sunny weather today, however the weather report was 60% chance of rain tonight and tomorrow. We had a little wind come up, then it started to cloud over. We did get our potluck dessert activity in without incident. About 1:30 A.M. I started hearing the sound of rain on the Peanut's roof. It must have rained most of the night, but I wouldn't swear to that! I was fast asleep during most of the pitter patter. So - I just say good night to you all and continue with the diary pages tomorrow. Thanks for coming along with me. Bye for now - - Earl
